

MAY 1974

A PLAN The PLEDGE ENDOWMENT Program

I am a lawyer and represent Continental Securities Corporation, 1280 State Street, Salem Oregon.

This Corporation has entered into a contract with Western States Chiropractic College to provide it with $1,000,000 in long term financing which it needs to complete the purchase of the new campus on 132nd Avenue in Portland. This loan of $1,000,000 will be amortized over 20 years and will provide for simple interest at 6% per annum.

Under the contract, the supporters of the College are asked to help by each making a pledge for $1,000 or more to purchase a life insurance endowment policy. They will assign this policy to the lender as additional security.

This loan will be made in five phases and the first phase must be completed by August 15, 1974 to meet the new deadline on payment of the first installment of the contract purchase price. Under the contract, it takes pledges totalling $233,000 to get the funds to make this payment. The college will then have a substantial amount of money which it has already raised to use as an emergency fund, and it will be on a sound financial basis.

I have no experience in the field of education of health-related activities, so I come to you with no knowledge of your profession or your College.

In the past, I have been curious as to the activities of the Chiropractor, however, I assumed that he had to get results. I know from my own experience as a lawyer that people pay you to solve their problems, and if there is no solution they do not come back. I am most surprised to find that the required education is so extensive and demanding. I am much impressed with the intelligence and intellectual curiosity which is a dominant characteristic of all of the persons I have met in your profession.

Because of these things, I am completely convinced that the profession must have a strong, outstanding college in the Northwest, and this college must have a campus which is a proper setting for a professional school.

I believe the entire profession in the Northwest has already had some benefit from this new campus, and the long range benefits are beyond speculation.

This campus is so very important to the profession that I ask you to set aside any objections or grievances you may have concerning the operation of the college. Make desired changes to improve the school later but don't let this stop you from supporting the acquisition of this campus at this time.

We have included three forms which are filled out for a $1,000 pledge to buy a $1,500 endowment policy. Sign the pledge form at the bottom, fill out the insurance application and sign it, sign the note - sign all three places, make checks payable to the college for $1000 and send these to Western States Chiropractic College, 2900 N. E. 132nd Ave., Portland, Oregon 97230.

Please help. The amount of $18.50 each month is a small amount to you but it will buy you a campus.

Deferred Giving

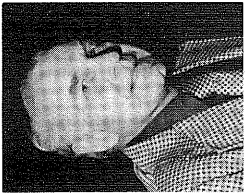

The Western States Chiropractic College has entered into a deferred giving program. Under this plan, because of specific provisions of the Federal Internal Revenue code, a person can make a gift of money, stock, real property or some other type of asset. The College will agree to pay the donor 6% per year on the market value of the asset.

Why would anyone ever make such a gift?

They make this type of gift to help the institution and to save on capital gains tax, income tax and inheritance tax. Also they often have an asset that is very valuable but pays no income and they now need the income.

Example: Twenty years ago a person purchased $10,000 worth of blue chip stock. It now has a market value of $100,000 but pays no dividend. A sale of the stock would result in an enormous capital gains tax. This person can make a deferred gift to the College. No capital gains tax will be paid, and he will receive an income of $6,000 each year from the College.

We are preparing brochures for your waiting room and also expect to get wide distribution for this material through health food stores, retirement communities and any other places we can think of.

President ELLIOTT

We are about to conclude our first year on our new campus, which calls for some reflection and possibly some redirection of our efforts and emphasis.

The staff, faculty and student body, and I'm sure the profession at large, has experienced some "growing pains" with us, as we all have sought to find and play new roles that have confronted us.

Our small overworked faculty looks forward happily to having three new full time people joining in this summer and fall in the biological science areas. Dr. Oliver Titrud, D.C., M.A., will be coming from three years at National College and this last year at Canadian Memorial in Toronto. Ms. Penny Amy, M.A., will be joining us from Portland State University here in Portland. Dr. David MacFadden, one of our former graduates, will be joining us from Montana, where he has concluded 17 years of activity with the National Boy Scout program. Dr. Dave practiced six years prior to his entrance into the scouting program. He will be an integral part of our staff, serving as our Dean of Administration and Development. You will be learning more about these people in the "Reporter" as we "profile them" for the profession.

The Trustees have worked long and with great determination of purpose to make W.S.C.C. one of the best in the nation. Since broad policy and financial stability is the main role of the Trustees, I would like to share with you some facts regarding "finance", to which this issue of the "Reporter" primarily addresses itself. Please read carefully the material provided by Mr. George Langford, Attorney, for Continental Security Corp, who have undertaken to help us in the solution of our money problems.

From my viewpoint, you should know that the College has two primary budgets:

1. An Operational Budget, which receives money from tuition, clinic, X-ray, Lab and other sales. Out of this budget, we pay salaries for staff and faculty, utilities, building and grounds expense and insurance.

I am happy to report that so far we are living within our operational budget.

2. The "Capital Budget" relative to our commitments to all capital expenditures. Our main obligation in this budget is our indebtedness or contract to the Catholic order from whom we purchased the new campus for the amount of $1,100,000 payable over the next five years at $25,000/yr.

The initial ~~$1,000,000~~ ^{$100,000} has been paid. Continental Securities Corporation has agreed to take over our contract and pay off the million we owe as per our original contract (5 years). They cannot help us unless we help them by involving ourselves and our patients in purchasing "endowment insurance policies" as will be explained by Mr. Langford in his article in this issue. They (Continental Securities) are permitting us to pay them back over a long term of 20 years. This company has a proven track record over the past 25 years, but this program will not work unless the Chiropractic profession along with help from some of our patients become involved. The time of involvement is now. Many of you have contributed generously - signing notes for $5,000 over the next 5 years. We appreciate what you have done for without hour help we would not be on this new campus. Now we need the help of all others who are holding the key to our financial stability as well as our future success. May I urge you to join with us now as we have undertaken the giant step forward for the Chiropractic profession in the Pacific Northwest.

Following is an alphabetical list of the names of your colleagues who have agreed to stand up and be counted. Please understand that this list has only gone back for three years, is a tentative list of donors and the record of the amounts donated, and will be added to in future editions of the "Reporter". Congratulations to the following:

Dr. MacFadden Named

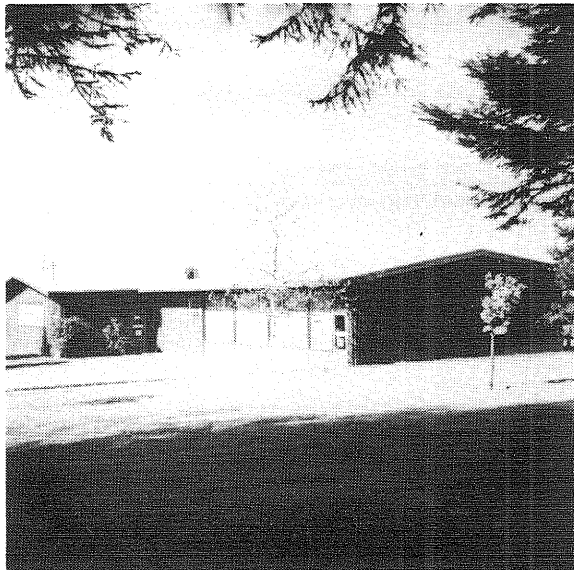

Dr. Robert E. Elliott announced recently the appointment of Dr. David C. MacFadden as Dean of Administration and Development, effective May 1, 1974. Dr. Elliott stated, "MacFadden is the man we have been looking for. He has a degree in Chiropractic, he has practiced as a Chiropractor and he has worked successfully for the Boy Scouts of America in the field of Public Relations and Fund Raising." "He has also Administered summer camp properties for B.S.A. in Oregon and in Montana and he was important in the success of Capital campaigns in Montana." "It appears to me," Dr. Elliott continued, "that he is an answer to our prayers. We have been able to persuade him to work for us full time and not return to private practice as he had planned."

Dr. MacFadden is a graduate of Western States Chiropractic College class of 1950 and he has practiced in Portland, Beaverton and Madras. In 1956 he was elected to the office of Coroner of Jefferson County, a post he held for two years.

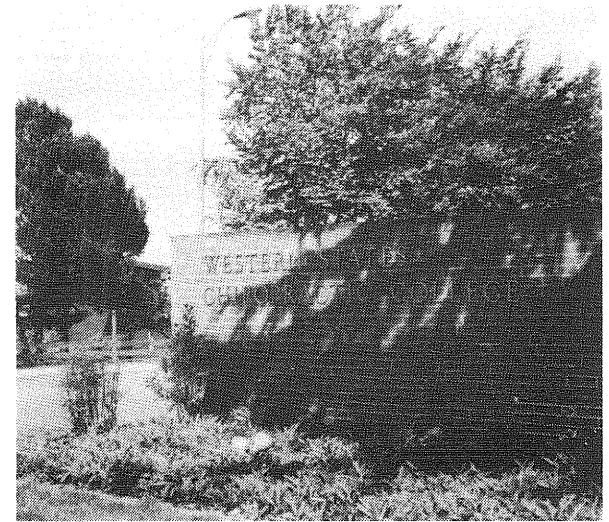

Recently MacFadden has been serving in the State of Montana. He has thirty two years service as a Volunteer and Professional worker in the Scout Program.

MacFadden is married to the former Darlene Sayles of the Portland and Nyssa area. They have five children: Gary, a senior in Journalism at the University of Montana; Linda (Mrs. Gary Beisley) of Portland; Sandi, a freshman at the University of Montana; Laurie, a senior at Great Falls High and Melissa, a Great Falls High freshman. Mrs. MacFadden is an art teacher with the Great Falls School system.

Dr. MacFadden has been active in many Organizations, including the Methodist Church, the B.P.O. Elks Club #214 of Great Falls, the Great Falls Squadron of the Montana Pilots Association and the Montana Wing of the Civil Air Patrol. He is also a member of the Great Falls Optimist Club.

The demand for natural health care during the past few years has been increasing at an unparalleled rate. This demand, coupled with the fact that more and more people are becoming exposed to the benefits to Chiropractic and consequently realizing the tremendous role that Chiropractic can play in meeting this demand, has resulted in a phenomenal increase in the number of applicants seeking enrollment at our professional Chiropractic institutions.

Western States Chiropractic College, with the acquisition of a beautiful new campus, has especially accentuated the attractiveness of our profession. In response to an unprecedented number of applicants to our college, the admission's department is presently very busy processing application credentials and conducting personal interviews to facilitate the selection and acceptance of the finest applicants.

Consideration is given to such major areas of concern as academic accomplishments, financial stability, character quality and previous working experience of both a non-professional and a professional nature.

Although the task is not yet completed, we are very impressed with the number of bright well-educated, highly-motivated individuals who have selected Western States Chiropractic College for a professional education leading to a career in the progressive field of Chiropractic.

Dean STONEBRINK

This month ends our first school year at the new campus, and with the largest student body we have ever had. To many of us, it has been our most difficult year; more problems, more obstacles, more needed programs, all come with expansion and the interaction of more people. This is compounded by the uncertainties of financial backing, physical plant development, and the challenges of an upgraded academic and practical program. These uncertainties have caused frustrations, both in the faculty and the student body, and probably in some segments of the field profession. Conversely, these challenges have also spurred most of us to greater efforts. With determination, patience, cooperation, and increased efforts, we can solve these problems, and I am encouraged when I look back and see the accomplishments and growth we have made. To our supporters, the H.R.F. Board, faculty and students, I can only repeat what I hear from them: "Hang in there"; and that is what we all intend to do.

This month we graduate 20 seniors, the largest class we have had since 1957; and undoubtedly the smallest class we will ever have again. I know most of these graduates fairly well. I know that their classroom education was uniform in content and exposure. They, as individuals, are not; nor have any of our graduates in other years been uniform. They are individuals, and a byproduct of all of the influences of the profession and our society; both within the confines of the college and without.

Singularly, they may not represent your individual accent on Chiropractic philosophy, art, and science; or mine; or any one individuals. Collectively, they are similar to many cross sections of the profession. Some may lean to and practice liberal Chiropractic, others may advocate and practice a more singular principle and technique; some may accent the musculoskeletal approach, others nutrition, physiotherapy, general practice, etc. In other words, they will probably be as diverse as the field of practice currently is.

I have mixed feelings as to whether this is desirable or not. However, if not, I question whether it is feasible that the education to a profession, which has broad perimeters, can be rigidly structured in an attempt to produce a pre-determined concept of a Chiropractic practitioner. I am certain that these 20 graduates, collectively, are as well educated as any other representative group in our past history. Their background of education was generally better; their W.S.C.C. classes, generally better; their clinic exposure, better; and so forth. And they will enter the practical field with more confidence and better preparation than most of us had.

How they will mature and how constructive they will be to the total profession will be largely shaped by the practicing profession. How can you, individually, or the A.C.A., or state associations help these graduates? They are not students anymore, but peers to all of us. They are all eager to take an active role in the profession; they not only want to practice, but they also want to contribute to our total professional needs. Use them, get acquainted with them, help them, and let them help us.

For too long we have been so few in numbers that most of us have been overworked and often discouraged by the demands of expanding professional programs and goals. This class represents additional help; and the larger ones in the immediate future, ever more help. Only you can now channel their potentials into constructive efforts.

To me, graduation is like New Years; you make a lot of resolutions, plans, and commitments; some you achieve, others you do not, and you have at it again the next time around. We are now actively planning for next year. We foresee another large Freshman class, a revitalized curriculum, new instructors, increased staff, improved clinic facilities, etc. Some of these may not be fully attained, many of them will, and we will always have need of renewed efforts. Money is tight and therefore time and people, and the necessary assets for all projects.

I look forward with great expectation to the achieving of the goals we have set, but sometimes I wish there was no work involved in getting there. Yet, nothing worthwhile comes easy, and it is these kinds of challenges that have given us a mechanism, as individuals and a profession, to become the type of determined people that I am proud to be part of.

To the year ahead, and in the current vernacular: "Let's hang in there and have at it".
