Dr. Richard Timmins

Inaugural Program

The inauguration of Dr. Richard Timmins as the new President of Western States Chiropractic College was held on October 23, 1976. It was a beautiful fall day with the campus alive with colors.

All of the participants in the program and the faculty were dressed in academic robes. The Parkrose High School Orchestra participated under the direction of Mr. Hugh Ewart. The invocation was given by Reverend Taylor Potter, Chaplain of Lewis and Clark College, followed by a welcome from Dr. Glenn Murphy, Academic Dean of Western States Chiropractic College.

The following gave salutations to the new President: U.S. Congressman Al Ullman; Dr. Henry West, Jr., American Chiropractic Association President; Dr. Arthur Schierholz, Secretary Treasurer of the Foundation for Chiropractic Education and Research; Dr. James E. Reese, Jr., Vice President of the International Chiropractic Association; Dr. Norman Hansel, Western States Chiropractic College Alumni President; Ms. Karen Busch, Student Board Member; and Dr. Oliver Titrud, faculty representative.

The investiture was conducted by Dr. George A. Dunn, President of the Health Research Foundation. Dr. Dunn

ACA Day 1976

Western States held its annual ACA Day on Friday, October 22nd, the first day of Homecoming Weekend. The College was indeed fortunate in having Dr. Henry West, Jr., ACA President, as featured speaker. All of us who have heard Dr. West before can readily understand his warm and enthusiastic reception by the WSCC students and faculty.

Dr. West addressed the students and faculty during the awards assembly in the College Gymnasium. Other speakers included Mr. Jim Markee, OACP Lobbyist; Dr. Tony Blandino, OACP President; Dr. Doug Miller, ACA Representative, and Rich Gorman, Student ACA Representative.

Mrs. David Miller, President of the OACP Auxiliary, presented scholarships to Mr. Bruce Beall and Ms. Sammi Lowe, and donated funds to the WSCC Library and Junior Clinic. Mr. Lon Brouse, 4th quarter student, was named recipient of the $1000 Len-Ell Associates Scholarship Donors were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Naef of Lodi, California.

Karen Busch, 10th quarter, received the annual W.A. Budden Scholarship awarded by the OACP.

The awards ceremony kicked off a weekend of activities on the WSCC campus. Class visitations were made by alumni on Friday afternoon, and then the alums were given the opportunity to be students once again with seminars in Sacro-Occipital Technique, Gonstead Technique, X-Ray Interpretation, and Clinical Laboratory Procedures. Mr. Gary Emmerson and Drs. Dangerfield, Anderson, and Burden led the programs.

Following the inauguration of Richard H. Timmins as President, dedication ceremonies were held at the WSCC Clinic at 102nd and N.E. Holladay.

Saturday evening the Alumni Banquet at the Portland Airport Sheraton Inn concluded the weekend social activities.

Dean's Conference

Vice President and Deans of Academic Affairs from six chiropractic colleges met October 1-3 on the Palmer College campus to discuss an agenda for the forthcoming conference of all Academic Deans. This conference is to be held in San Francisco during the last week of January 1977. Among the problems discussed were transferability of credits, diversity of state licensing boards requirements, possible exchange of faculty among chiropractic colleges, increased standards for admissions and other topics.

Doctor Miller (Palmer), Stearn (Columbia) and Murphy (W.S.C.C.) were elected by the full conference of Deans in Houston as a steering committee to organize an association of Chiropractic Colleges. Due to the proximity of the Palmer campus, Doctors Lancau (Logan), Cleveland III, and Allenburg (Northwestern) found it convenient to participate in this conference.

New Financial Aid Officer Appointed

Mr. Forrest Rodgers joined our staff in November as Director of Financial Aid and Assistant to the Dean for Student Services. For the past two years he has been Director of Career Development at Pacific University where he planned and organized a service program for career development including a "Career Internship Program" for student placement and training in metropolitan business. During this period he was elected to "Outstanding Young Man of America." For a year prior to this, he acted as Admissions Counselor at the same institution.

Forrest, who is still single, attended the City College of San Francisco and Pacific University where he was student body president and received his Bachelors of Arts Degree in 1973. He hopes to set up a placement and information organization for chiropractors at WSSC. Welcome, Forrest.

Fellowship Award

Presentation of ICC plaque commemorating election as an Honorary Fellow of I.C.C. by Dr. Ralph M. Schmidt, D.C., President of I.C.C. to Dr. Timmins, Ph.D.

At the Saturday evening Alumni Banquet held on October 23rd at the Portland Airport Sheraton Inn, Dr. Richard Timmins, President of W.S.C.C. was presented with a copper wall plaque by Dr. Ralph Schmidt, President of I.C.C. This plaque commemorates his election to a select group of Honorary Fellows.

The International College of Chiropractors is an organization with membership consisting of those chiropractors and laity who have contributed much toward the advancement of our profession. Election to HONORARY FELLOW is limited to 50 persons world-wide and is accomplished only after a vigorous investigation of the person who has been nominated.

Dr. Timmins, your record of outstanding service to the chiropractic profession has richly earned this honor for you. Congratulations!

FCER Research Seminar

Dr. John Hartman, professor and chairman of Department of Sociology at Wichita State University, FCER committee; Mr. Walter Hellyer, president of the Columbia Mattress Co., of Chicago, a Springwall associate; and Dr. William Davis, associate professor of chemistry at Western States Chiropractic College.

Research Seminar sponsored by the Foundation for Chiropractic Education and Research and the Springwall Education and Research Trust October 1976 Chicago.

Eleven chiropractic colleges were represented at a three-day research seminar in October, sponsored by the Foundation for Chiropractic Education and Research (FCER) and the Springwall Education and Research Trust.

Workshop sessions covered a wide range of problems in research, including methodology, correct preparation of applications for FCER and other research grants, released time and equipment needs on campus, range of topics for chiropractic research, exchange of information between colleges, and others. A second seminar is planned next spring.

Representing the following colleges of chiropractic were Doctors: John Allenburg and Dale Good, Northwestern of St. Paul, Minn.; Carl Cleveland III, Cleveland of Kansas City and Cleveland of Los Angeles; William C. Davis, Western States of Portland, Ore.; Martin Jenness, Palmer of Davenport, Ia.; Leo LaVoy, National of Lombard, Ill.; Seymour Leshow, Columbia of New York, N.Y.; Gilbert Rodriguez, Sherman of Spartanburg, S.C.; Frank Rudeseal, Texas of Pasadena, Tex.; Tuan Tran, Los Angeles of Glendale, Calif.; and John Triano, Logan of Chesterfield, Mo.

Opening the seminar, Dr. Van D. Merica's of Dearborn, Mich., FCER vice-president, said: "We're having growing pains. We are very proud of the academic levels which have been reached by the chiropractic colleges. Now research must come from our own campuses. We can put a great deal of emphasis on it, and this seminar is the beginning of it."

Jean Dyar of Brighton, Colo., trustee of the Springwall Trust, said the seminar "testifies our conviction that research is the profession's greatest priority." She pointed out that Springwall has financed FCER research capability studies at five chiropractic colleges and that two more are scheduled this year.

Dr. Henry G. West, Jr., of Pocatello, Idaho, president of the American Chiropractic Association, said that "development of our research program is essential to the continued success of chiropractic."

Seminar leaders were Dr. Joe M. Bohlen, professor of sociology at Iowa State University, Ames, Ia., and Dr. John Hartman, professor and chairman of the department of sociology at Wichita State University, Wichita, Kansas.

Dr. Bohlen said that "no strings attached" era of research grants is over. "Projects must be justified," he said, and FCER is among the agencies that "demand accountability." Both Dr. Bohlen and Dr. Hartman serve on an FCER committee that reviews applications for new research grants and interim reports from research projects in progress.

Dr. Hartman said that opportunities in research work are coupled "with an openness of mind by the researcher, a willingness to change, and a certain cynicism in the sense of realizing that there are no unimpeachable sources."

Everyone has every right to ask "on what basis did you say what you said," he declared. "And when I tell you it's that way because I say it's that way, that's not satisfactory."

Dr. Hartman, who led a detailed discussion on preparation of applications for grants, also cautioned against being overly defensive about research work "and responding to every parry that's made." He said some such activity can be "like boxing—hitting an individual who hits you in return and it goes on and on." Dr. Hartman said that "unless you need the feeling of being an outgroup to produce in-group solidarity," such activity is "not productive."

Dr. Ralph G. Miller, newly appointed executive secretary of the Council on Chiropractic Education (CCE), stressed the importance of research to accreditation. He defined accreditation as "a situation in which a profession looks at itself and asks whether it is doing what it says it is supposed to be doing."

Dr. Ralph D. Stouks, assistant CCE executive secretary, said a firm dedication to research by the chief executive of each college is necessary, including release time for faculty engaged in research projects. He asked for names of students who might be interested in a career in research.

Other speakers included Dr. Joseph Janse, president of National College, to which the researchers made a visit to see the college's research facilities; Dr. Arthur M. Schierholz, FCER secretary-treasurer; Walter Hellyer, president of the Columbia Mattress Co., of Chicago, a Springwall associate; and representatives of two publications — William L. Luckey and George M. Davidson of the Digest of Chiropractic Economics, and Dr. William S. Rehm, editor-in-chief of the Mid-Atlantic Journal of Chiropractic.

Business Manager Named

The Business Office has a new face these days. David Russell came to the College the first of October to take the position of Business Manager. Dave has his masters degree in Business Administration from the University of Oregon and has had experience as a contractor and as an accountant.

Helping Mr. Russell as he takes over the business department is Mike Moscow who served as Business Manager two years ago. Former Business Manager, Gordon Ball, resigned October 31, 1976.

Western States Continues Growth

The College continues its steady growth since September of 1975 when the Multnomah County Planning Commission allowed the College to increase its number of students beyond the 200 figure. The following chart shows the growth in the past seven years, the percentage increase and the number of male and female students:

Year	Percentage of Increase
(Fall)	Male	Female	Total
1970	38	0	38
1971	59	1	60
1972	54	1	60
1973	84	5	89
1975	135	12	147
1974	189	17	206
1975	297	31	328
1976	358	49	407

A total population of 550 students has been allowed for the physical plant at the new campus. The administration is planning for a gradual increase to that figure in order not to disturb the academic program. The student faculty ratio will be maintained at CCE required levels during the growth period.

Alumni Doing Things

The Western States Chiropractic College Alumni is working hard to improve the College and help the recruiting program. A recent acquisition of the Alumni was a display to be used at conventions, college recruiting programs, and job fairs. The display was built by Color and Design, Inc. and is constructed so that it may fit in a 2 ft. by 4 ft. traveling bag. The display cost over $500.00.

In memory of Dr. Robert Elliot, a brass plaque was purchased by the Alumni for the entry way of Elliot Hall. The plaque reads:

This building is dedicated to
Robert E. Elliot, D.C.
President of Western States
Chiropractic College
1956-1974

In Recognition of Unselfish Service

Microfilming of the College records has been set as a major project of the Alumni for the coming year. This will be a large project to undertake but will be of great benefit to all students and graduates in protecting the college records. It will also help the College meet the requirement of record facilities for accreditation.

Your alumni dues of $10.00 per year helps your alumni officers do these projects. Please send your dues if you have not already done so. For a doctor in his first year of practice, dues are only $2.00.

Alumni Officers Elected

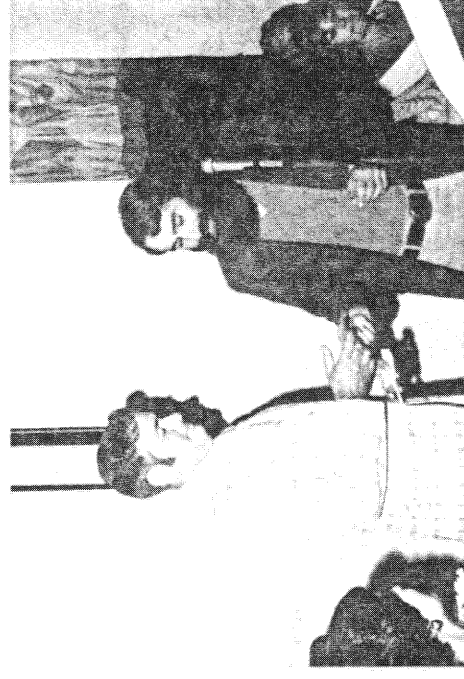

A count of the ballots returned found the following people selected to officer positions in the Western States Chiropractic College Alumni Association.

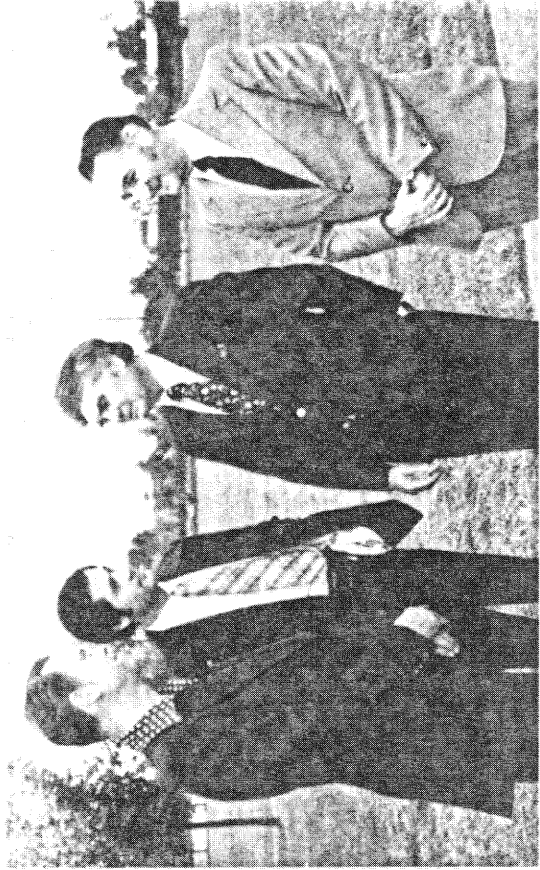

President	Steve Oliver, D.C.
Vice President	James Shipp, D.C.
Secretary-Treasurer	Jack Wise, D.C.
Directors	Appa Anderson, D.C. Ed Pahl, D.C. David C. MacFadden, D.C. Lou Schnacky, D.C. Norman Hansel, D.C.
Past President

1976 Alumni Banquet

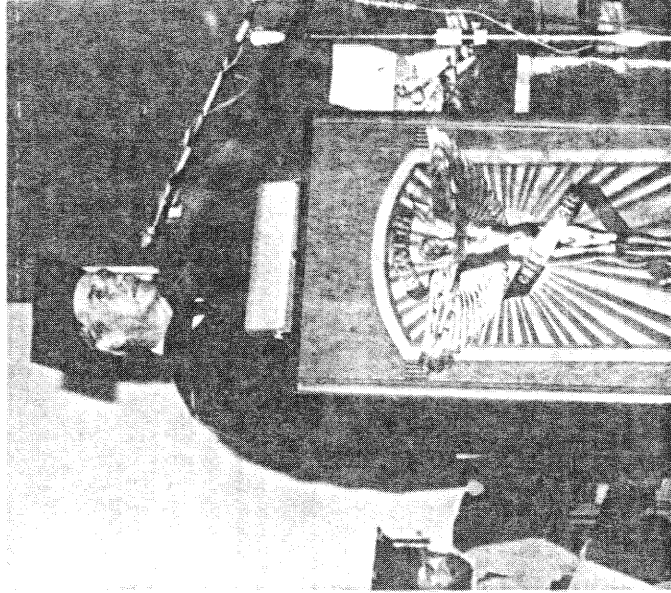

The Alumni and their guests gathered at the Airport Sheraton in Portland for the Homecoming Banquet. Over one-hundred were present to share a delightful evening with honored guest Dr. Richard Timmins, College President, and President Eminentus, Mr. Sam Warren.

Recent graduate, Ed Pahl, D.C., was master of ceremonies and kept everyone in good spirits. Reminiscing about the past was ACA President and WSCC alumnus, Dr. Henry West, Jr., OACP President, Tony Blandino, D.C., was there to make a presentation to Sam Warren (Honorary Doctor of Laws) in honor of his service to the profession. John Miller, D.C., Academic Dean of Palmer College, presented President Timmins a silver tray in memory of the occasion of his inauguration to the presidency of Western States Chiropractic College. A brief summary of the progress of the College was made by David MacFadden, D.C., Dean of Administration. Student Body President, Arthur Faygenholtz, presented a check to Dr. MacFadden amounting to $3,250.00 for improvements to be made at the new clinic and to the Junior Clinic on campus. Darlene MacFadden made the drawing for the Springwall Chiropractic mattress set, and the lucky winner was Robert Pfeiffer, D.C., of Pendleton, Oregon.

Dr. Douglas Miller, Dr. Tony Blandino, Congressman Ullman, Dr. Daniel Wilson.

Dr. Blandino and Pres. Emeritus Sam Warren.

presented a medallion struck especially for the occasion to Dr. Timmins. An inaugural address was given by Dr. Timmins. He then conferred the Honorary Degree "Doctor of Laws" upon the former President, Samuel G. Warren. The benediction was given by Rev. William E. Taylor, pastor of Eastminster Presbyterian Church, Portland; and the Parkrose High School Orchestral played the recessional.

A reception was held in the east room of the Gymnasium followed by a tour of the new clinic facility where Dr. Timmins cut the ribbon signifying the official opening of the clinic.
